I'll be here for you, baby,
as you take your first breath.
The love that I have for you will never rest.

I'll be here for you, baby,
to soothe all of your cries.
I will be here for every hello
as well as every goodbye.

I'll be here when you are happy
and we can dance together in the rain,
just to see your smile
as bright as sunshine on a sunny day.

I'll be here when you start to crawl
and take your very first step,
for all the precious moments
I'll never want to forget.

I'll be here on your first day of school.
I'll probably cry as we say goodbye.
And while you are learning something new,
I will miss you the entire time.

You will make amazing friends as the years go by.
Some will stay, and some will go,
and some will be the best people you will ever know.

We'll go on amazing adventures.
Oh, the places that we will see.
Together we will ride away,
just you and me

One day, you will navigate from the driver's seat.
One day, you will navigate on your own,
navigate a life without me.

I'll be here for every sport, no matter how good at it you are.
Whether you are kicking, throwing, or running,
I will be your biggest fan by far.

I'll sit through any recital and watch you play the guitar, dance ballet, act in a play, or sing your little heart away.

I won't ever miss a birthday, no matter where you are, because loving you has been my greatest mission by far.

I am here to support you

in everything you do.
It's your party, baby. You can dance
if you want to.

I will be there to see you walk across the stage.

I will smile at your accomplishments,
big and small, every milestone along the way.

I'll still be there for you, baby,
even on your wedding day.
I will stand tall as I give you away.

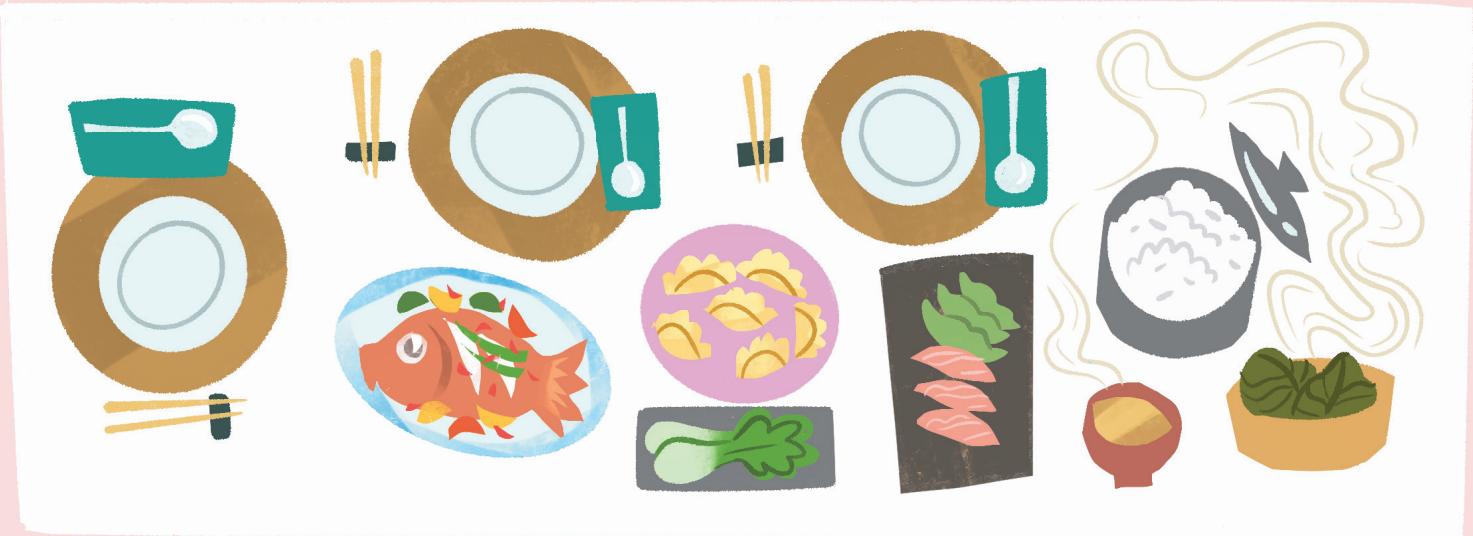

I'll be there for you, baby, because my love
for you is true.

I think about you, my sweet child, in everything I do.

You have made my life sweeter just by being you.
I will always try to make you smile
even when you are feeling blue.

One day, you will go off
and build a life of your own,
but I will still be here
if you ever need to come home.

I'll be here for you, baby, because that's what mothers, fathers, grandparents, and family are supposed to do. We'll be here, and we will love you all the way through.

I'll be here for you, baby,
forever and a day.
I'll be here for you, baby,
because in my heart you'll stay.
